Teacher's TV Pact Renewed

New honors were extended this week to Julius Sumner Miller, El Camino College instructor in physics, whose 16-week television series, "Why Is It So?" was recently completed on CBS television.

Announcement that the popular Miller show would be renewed for a 13-week showing was followed this week by the further announcement that an additional 13 weeks have been scheduled to start in September. The new half-hour show will appear on Channel 12 and will explain and vitalize fundamental physics encountered in every day life.

Miller, who is featured in the TV series, will present the second in a series of demonstration lectures on the campus of the University of California at Los Angeles from 9:30 until 11 a.m. on successive Saturday mornings Nov. 1, 8, 15, 22 and Dec. 6 and 13.

King Calls for Mass Turnout on Election Day

Congressman Cecil R. King today called upon the 322,392 registered voters of the 17th District to make election history next Tuesday by casting more ballots than any other congressional district in the United States.

In his pre-election appeal, King said: "In keeping with the fact that our district is one of the largest populated congressional districts in California and that today we have the largest registration of voters in its history, Republicans and Democrats alike should take pride in these facts, and turn out more ballots on this coming Election Day than ever before.

"We in the 17th District will be helping to elect a new governor for the State and a new senator to represent California in Washington, as well as voting on many other State offices and important propositions." Current official registration figures for the 17th Congressional District list 198,753 Democrats and 112,152 Republican voters.
